

The lifting of the cross-ownership ban will, undoubtedly, greenlight further media consolidation and may not serve the public interest. I, like many Americans, believed that it was the duty of the FCC to represent and protect the public's interest in such matters from corporate ownership and control. The majority of us are unaware of this change in policy at the FCC. Please do more to inform the general public of the FCC's intentions in advance of the change so that we may have an opportunity to present our case directly to our Representatives. I would like to add that I am opposed to repealing the current rules and offended by the stealth that this issue appears to be taking in order to achieve its goals.
